1:225,000, or 3.5 statute miles to an inch; (2) Politische Übersichtskarte der Yap-Inseln. Scale, 1:150,000, or 2.38 statute miles to an inch; (3) Ngardok See (Pelau Inseln); (4) Profil des Gamedu-Stufenberges, bei Ngabuket (Pelau-Inseln), Mitt. aus d. Deutsch. Schutzg., No. 3, Berlin, 1908.

These maps are by Prof. Dr. Augustin Krämer and illustrate an article, "Studienreise nach den Zentral- und Westkarolinen," on his explorations in the Carolines last year. The nomenclature on No. 2 includes new names ascertained by Dr. Krämer.

BONIN ISLANDS.—Die Karte der Bonin-Inseln. Scale not given. Journal of the College of Science, Imperial University of Tokio, Japan, Vol. 23, Article 10, Tokio, 1908.

Illustrates a monograph by Mr. Hattori "Pflanzengeographische Studien über die Bonin-Inseln."

POLAR.

ARCTIC.—Preliminary Map of Prince Charles Foreland. Scale, 1:250,000, or 3.94 statute miles to an inch. From surveys by W. S. Bruce, 1906-7. Geog. Jour., Vol. 32, No. 2, August, 1908.

Supplements a paper by Captain Bruce. Prince Charles Foreland, a long narrow island off the coast of West Spitzbergen, though discovered more than three centuries ago, was almost entirely unknown until visited in 1898 and 1906 by the Prince of Monaco. This product of Captain Bruce's surveys may well take the place of the earlier inaccurate charts. The surveys, however, were not completed and about one-third of the coast line is indicated by a broken line.

The Complete Mountaineer. By George D. Abraham. xv and 493 pp., 75 Illustrations, Glossary of Mountaineering Terms, and Index. Doubleday, Page & Co., New York, 1908. (Price, $4.50.)

Several good works have been written on the art of mountaineering and the acquirement of proficiency in it. This volume will take its place among the best on the subject. The first part (111 pp.) giving the history and technicalities of the sport, is in its practical aspects the most interesting and valuable part of the work. It has chapters on the early mountaineers, modern mountaineering, equip-
